

REMARKS

Applicants respectfully request further examination and reconsideration in view of the above amendments. Claims 1, 3, 4, 6-9, 12-55 and 58-65 were previously pending in this application. By the above amendment, new Claims 66 and 67 have been added and Claims 64 and 65 have been canceled. Claims 1, 3, 4, 6-9, 12-55 and 58-63, 66 and 67 are currently pending.

In the previous Office Action, the claims were rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 5,623,613 to Rowe et al. (hereinafter "Rowe") in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,940,073 to Klosterman et al. (hereinafter "Klosterman") and U.S. Patent No. 6,005,565 to Legall et al. (hereinafter "Legall"). The applicants have previously argued that this combination is improper and that, even if considered proper, the combination of Rowe, Klosterman and Legall does not teach the invention as claimed. Those arguments from the previous response are all incorporated herein. As described in those arguments, neither Rowe, Klosterman, Legall nor their combination teach or make obvious, interactively navigating individual content within the graphical user interface that also displays the set of categories, the set of channels related to a selected category, and individual content associated with a selected channel simultaneously within the same screen.

Within the Advisory Action of July 14, 2004, it is recognized that Legall teaches shifting the search information in a separate window. By the above amendment, all of the claims have been amended to recite a single graphical user interface window. This limitation is supported in the specification as filed, in at least Figure 2 and the accompanying description. It is provided in the specification that "FIG. 2 illustrates a graphical user interface in a display in the practice of the invention. . . ." [Specification, page 4, lines 25-26] As described above and recognized in the Advisory Action, neither Rowe, Klosterman, Legall nor their combination teach or make obvious, interactively navigating individual content within a graphical user interface window that displays the set of categories, the set of channels related to a selected category, and individual content associated with a selected channel. For at least these reasons the pending claims are allowable.

Applicants respectfully submit that all of the pending claims are now in condition for allowance, and allowance at an early date would be greatly appreciated. Should the Examiner have any questions or comments, they are encouraged to call the undersigned at (408) 530-9700 to discuss the same so that any outstanding issues can be expeditiously resolved.

Respectfully submitted,
